A Case Where the Number Thirteen Takes Good Its Reputation

By CLARISSA MACKIE
Copyright by American Press Assoc.

As the door closed behind the somewhat form of Homer Dickson the stout stenographer sighed relievedly and drew a magazine from her desk. "I thought he'd never get," she said.

The day's bookkeeper took a silver quarter from his pocket and slipped it toward the office boy. "Pardon," he said succinctly as he spread the money on the paper over his ledger and turned to the house.

"I saw Homer breathe it for the first," remarked Jimmy when he returned to the office.

"He was good for the day," said the stenographer.

"No he said," agreed the bookkeeper, "cracking shells and twining them over his shoulder into the waste paper basket with admirable dexterity. If you want the afternoon off, Mr. Porter, you can have it," he said, with a smile.

The stenographer smiled faintly as she reached for another pen. "This suite up," she murmured, turning the pages of her magazine.

Suddenly the outer door opened and precipitated confusion upon the scene. A tall man, middle aged, with a square, clean cut face and piercing dark eyes glanced from side to side.

"Mr. Dickson has been asked to dine," said the man.

"Dine?" said the bookkeeper, "he's gone for the day," replied the man, "he's been thrusting the newspaper into a drawer and slipping on into the ink well."

"Where will he return?" asked the stenographer.

"He didn't say," said the bookkeeper, "but I think he's gone for the day," replied the man, "he's been thrusting the newspaper into a drawer and slipping on into the ink well."

"I'll wait," said the stenographer, "he'll be back in a minute."

"No," said the bookkeeper, "he's gone for the day," replied the man, "he's been thrusting the newspaper into a drawer and slipping on into the ink well."

"I'll wait," said the stenographer, "he'll be back in a minute."

"No," said the bookkeeper, "he's gone for the day," replied the man, "he's been thrusting the newspaper into a drawer and slipping on into the ink well."

"I'll wait," said the stenographer, "he'll be back in a minute."

"No," said the bookkeeper, "he's gone for the day," replied the man, "he's been thrusting the newspaper into a drawer and slipping on into the ink well."

"I'll wait," said the stenographer, "he'll be back in a minute."

insisted to speak and spoke with an air of authority. Altogether he showed himself to be a man of considerable force. "All the time he was talking," said the stenographer, "I was aware that the great speaker had wheeled his chair about and was looking at the bookkeeper with a steady gaze. The bookkeeper in the private office and as the speaker's gaze passed over him, the stenographer said:

"How long have you been with Mr. Dickson?"

"Ten years," stammered Bray obediently.

"And I suppose you are satisfied with your position?"

"Well—not exactly, sir. You see, there is no chance for advancement."

"That's a capital reason," said the speaker. "How much is Dickson paying you now?"

"Fifteen hundred, sir."

"I'll give you three thousand," snapped out Feather.

"I like your look, sir, and you're just the sort of chap I like to have around—strong, active and businesslike. What do you say?"

"Bray gasped. "What, you say, thank you, I shall be delighted," he stammered.

"Come over to my house," said Feather.

The bookkeeper hesitated a brief instant, then he went to his room.

Of course Mr. Dickson could not expect me to refuse such an offer, but I shall be obliged to you."

"Of course not—even if you have been with him ten years," rejoined Bray.

"Bray—Bray—Bray, sir."

"Mr. Feather says you're right down to the bone, sir," said the stenographer.

"I'll be right down to the bone, sir," said the stenographer.

Apple Cakes

Some people cook only two ways of preparing apples—by stew or by baking them. Try some of these old ways of preparing the "king of fruits."

For hot apple cake, mix apple butter, pure fruit, sweetened to taste and flavored with the grated rind of one lemon and cinnamon or nutmeg. Put the puree on the fire to become very cold, then add the whites of two eggs to a stiff froth, adding this to the fruit, which should now be in the serving dish.

When it comes to the table cover it with a couple of rich cream.

The next fried apples, wash and wipe dry some fruit cooking apples, cut them in slices a quarter of an inch thick and fry them in butter until tender and brown. Dredge with powdered sugar and serve piping hot on warm plates.

Caramel apples may be made as follows: In a skillet put one cupful of hot water. Let boil for three or four minutes, then drop in five fine cooking apples which have been pared, cored and halved. Let these stew for the hour, until the tender and sticky, then drain them out into a glass dish.

In another skillet mix one cupful of sugar and one-half cupful of water. When it comes to the table cover it with a couple of rich cream.

When hot to the boiling stage, stirring briskly for several minutes, then add the apples and serve either hot or cold.

Culinary Hints

All fruit salads are improved by marinating in French dressing. Those rare served with cream and sugar.

Instead of the individual pate in a large plate, serve a single serving dish.

PAID THE PRISONER'S FINE

Only One Man in the Crowd Refused to Pay the Fine.

Passengers in the smoking car of a Northern express train stared in amazement at a desperate looking fellow who had been taken to the Columbia avenue station and was being handcuffed into the car by a policeman.

The latter looked conspicuously at the expressions of surprise visible on the faces of the passengers and paid no heed to the later-looking glances cast and advice given.

When the train reached Manassas station, the prisoner broke down and cried and the constable, apparently in sympathy with him, spoke several words and then stood up and addressed the passengers.

"Gentlemen," he began, "this man has been unfortunate enough to have committed a petty crime and, unable to pay the fine for his act, was taken to the Northern station. His wife, he learned, was dying, and being a 'trusty' at the jail, he made his bed here. We caught him when he had almost reached home, and we will be forced to the alternative of paying double the original fine and being freed or remaining here until the prisoner's release, was collected."

The twenty-first man listened in silence to the explanation of the constable and then left the train at Manassas station.

When the constable and the prisoner asked him why he did not contribute to the fund.

"Because," said the man, "I saw the man take the same game going to the jail in the train from Philadelphia to this."

GRIM PARTNERS.

The Grim Schema "Death and the Devil" was the title of a musical comedy.

An extraordinary case of official propriety is reported to the Vancouver Times. A musical comedy named "Kroil" living at Wagonville, received a notification from a local bank that he had been arrested for a crime.

The latter looked conspicuously at the expressions of surprise visible on the faces of the passengers and paid no heed to the later-looking glances cast and advice given.

Stand by your Town

Stand by your town. Not a dollar invested there but some good comes of it. There is no family like one's own family. There is no wife like one's own wife. There is no town like one's own town, where we live, educate our children, on whose streets our babies play, and where we may some day sleep. Let the newspapers stand by the town, and let the business men stand by the newspapers, and let us make our homes as famous as possible.

The following which deals with advanced citizenship, is taken from a recent issue of the British Columbian: "The Canadian Courier, Canada's illustrated national weekly, which is doing so much to set Canadians thinking along right lines concerning things civic and national, has in recent issues been devoting some space to discussions on the relation of a citizen to his town. It is necessary to impress upon the average citizen the important fact that the efficient and economical administration of his city or town is the business of the citizen, and the interest of the Dominion. The interests of the city come nearer home to him. For every failure or neglect in city administration the citizen pays in increased taxes and diminished opportunities. The city is the embodiment of the co-operative idea, and if the progressive corporate spirit is not abroad, the individual citizen is a loser in many ways."

"One writer in contributing to the discussion in the Courier expresses some views that are of interest locally. No municipal government, he says, can afford to neglect the cultivation of the aesthetic and artistic taste of its people. This is a first requisite to advanced citizenship. Slovenly streets, unsightly landmarks, unsanitary conditions, bespeak careless life, the absence of civic spirit. A beautiful outdoors is a wonderful developer of patriotism. A beautiful city appeals to the best in the citizen and engenders civic pride."

Editorial Notes
It is surprising how credulous some people are.
When you are working for or saying a good thing for your town you are accomplishing all the more for yourself.
The day schools unify the coming citizens of the nation. They exalt the brotherhood of man, and create sympathy between heart and man.

The bugbears who invented those lying and damaging reports regarding Turtle Mountain and the town of Frank, should be deported with all haste.

"An editorial article on Turtle Mountain and the Frank Slide has been crowded out of this issue, and will appear next week."

has been crowded out of this issue, and will appear next week."

"Canada and Her Colonies" is the title of a book just published by the Blairmore, member of the provincial, legislative of Alberta, which treats very concisely with the rights of Alberta to control her own natural resources. Mr. Moore has made a practical study of affairs of this province, and his work gives volumes of interest to the people of this province as well as of Canada in general, who may be fortunate in securing a volume of this interesting work. We have to thank the agents, The Capital Publishing Co., of Edmonton for a copy of this book, which is a large volume of 100 pages of large clear type. The book is being placed upon the market by the Capital Publishing Co. for the really nominal price of $1.00, and anyone desiring copies of this volume, the number of which will no doubt be limited, would do well to order at once.

Questions sent in for solution: An inquisitive correspondent wants to know which is worse, caterpillars or grasshoppers? Depends on where you have them; on the wheat grasshoppers are worse, down your back, caterpillars. 2. "Gentle Reader" wants the tariff problem solved. Make up your mind which way you want it and that will be it. 3. "An Anxious One" asks is marriage a failure? No, not if you secure your wedding cards at this office. 4. "Looking for Trouble" wants to know when will England have another war? When some other nation thinks they can whip us.

Live and Let Live

In speaking of a person's faults, Pray don't forget your own; Remember those with whom of glass. Should seldom throw a stone. If we have nothing else to do, But talk of those who sin; The better we condemn his home, And from that point begin. We have no right to judge a man, Until he's fairly tried; Should we not like his company, We know the world is wide. Some may have faults, and who has not. The old as well as young? Perhaps we may, for ought we know. Have pity to their one.

I'll tell you of a better plan, I find it works as well: To try my own deeds to cure, Before of others bill. And though I sometimes hope to be No worse than some of them, My own short comings bid me let, The faults of others go.

Then let us all when we commence To slander friend or foe; Think of the harm one word may do To those we little know. Remember curses, sometimes like Our children, root at home; Don't speak of others' faults until, We have none of our own.

Blairmore Council Meets

The regular meeting of the Blairmore Village Council took place in Budd's Hall on Monday night, a full attendance, including the chairman, being present.

Minutes of previous meeting were read and accepted. A petition from Thomas Edin and James Barrow was read, asking that the water be extended from Woodward Street to their houses on Lot 1, Block 25, and Lot 1, Block 24, respectively, on Sixth Avenue. On motion, petition was allowed to lay over.

A letter from the McLaren Lumber Co., re extension of water main to the mill was read, and secretary informed the council that the McLaren Co. had already been notified of the cause of delay in this matter.

An application was received from R. W. Coulthard, to have water pipes extended to his dwelling. Ordered filed.

Letter from the Provincial Board of Health, re account of Dr. McKay in connection with recent small pox patients, also the city of Lethbridge in same matter were read. On motion by H. E. Lyon, sec. by L. Dutil, bills were ordered paid.

Communication from J. E. Richards, government printer, re advertising in Alberta Gazette relative incorporation of Blairmore, was ordered filed. Communication from Board of Railway Commissioners re crossing C. P. R. at Eighth Avenue, was read. Chairman was authorized to furnish necessary plans and profiles for the work.

Secretary was instructed to inform the department of the interior of the visit of surveyors, and that the cemetery grant had been surveyed and defined and was now ready for fencing. Council would proceed with the work of enclosing the grounds.

Fryer-Lyons, that the secretary ask for tenders for the construction of 3500 feet of 2-point wire fencing, around the south and west sides. Carried.

An account from Dawson & Green was read and ordered referred to the water committee, and if found correct, paid.

Two bills from T. P. Cyr in connection with the removing of the Mercantile Hall were read, and on motion by H. E. Lyon, sec. by L. Dutil, same would be paid if work was found completed and satisfactory. Carried.

Mr. Jennings, assistant irrigation commissioner of the department of the Interior, Calgary, was present to secure some light on the existing grievances between the village of Blairmore and Mr. Lake, over the water source from York Creek. The pros. and cons. of the case were placed before Mr. Jennings, from which he will summarize a report to be forwarded to the department.

J. D. S. Barrett, editor of this paper, left on Tuesday evening for Lebridge where he will participate in the 12th of July celebration. Mr. Barrett will return to Blairmore about the end of the week.

Rev. W. T. Young, of Knox Methodist church, Frank, preached in the Presbyterian church here on Sunday morning last, while Miss Paul, deaconess of the same church at Frank, preached here in the evening.

The Blairmore brass band turned out for the first time on Tuesday evening, when they headed the Orange procession from their hall to the C. P. R. depot. The band discoursed some enlivening notes and proved themselves very efficient.

The stone and brick building which Prayer & Sinclair are erecting for their own use on the corner of Victoria street and Ninth avenue, promises to be one of the most attractive and best buildings in the town. The excavation is completed and a number of masons are at work on the stone basement.

Wellington lodge, No. 2224, L. O. A., held a church parade on Sunday afternoon last. About forty men met in their hall and at 2:30 p.m. formed in procession and marched up Victoria street to the Sixth avenue, then down State street to the Central Baptist church, where Rev. Bro. J. F. Hunter, Worshipful Master of said lodge, preached to about forty followers of King William and a large number of admirers. After the service in the church was over, the brethren paraded up State street to Eighth avenue and back to the hall where a pleasant time was spent. This is the first time that an Orange parade has taken place in Blairmore. The local lodge was only organized late last winter and it already has a membership of about fifty.

Climb Turtle Mountain in Record Time

A party of "greenies" on Friday morning last, decided to try their skill at mountain climbing, and after taking provisions, donning themselves with heavy spiked shoes and with pickets in their hands and knives in their pockets, starting off on their journey towards the blue sky.

The party consisted of two squads and in each squad there were three men. Rev. W. T. Young, W. J. Bartlett and J. S. Murray, the members of the first squad or squad No. 1, left Blairmore at 10:30 a.m. At 11:14 a.m. the second squad, or squad No. 2, consisting of R. M. Brisco, W. M. Wetmore and J. D. S. Barrett, started out to follow squad No. 1 up the Turtle Mountain, and after keeping in mind the safe line which befel Lot's wife, we refused to look back until we had scaled the mountain to the distance of nearly a mile. Here the two squads met and here many romantic stories were told. Our clerical friend, Rev. W. T. Young, who runs a gospel mill within a short distance of Turtle Mountain, in the town of Frank, related part of his experience in climbing mount Gabriel. J. S. Murray told of his climb up the Otago mountain and narrated several thrilling adventures. W. J. Bartlett interested the party with one of his bear stories. R. M. Brisco delighted the climbers by describing an incident which had a bearing upon the fall of Pompeii. W. M. Wetmore told of some daring feats which he had witnessed in mountain climbing, while the editor of this old rag of freedom told of some continents that had reared their lofty brows above the ocean's trackless waste only to return to the coral caverns from whence they sprang.

After a much needed rest and after several pictures were taken of the party, the travellers proceeded on their journey towards the peak of the Turtle Mountain—the mountain which on April 29, 1903, startled and destroyed 86 human lives and about 80 homes. During our ascent and when near the top of the mountain we saw directly ahead of us a strange looking animal. Our legs began to tremble and we could feel our hats move as our hair struggled to stand on end. The entire party sighed for the rifle and shot guns which were left behind. Our knives glistened in the sunlight as the eyes of that ferocious looking beast sparkled like huge diamonds. The past sins of the whole party were written on long imaginary scrolls before us, and some one was heard to mutter, "Could we but climb where Moses stood" etc., while a second person more solemnly and thoughtfully sang a threnody song. As the bewildered party stood there grieving over the past and imagining they could see death in all its horrors, that mystery of the mountains winked his left eye, wagged his tail and disappeared from view. What it was nobody seems certain but it is believed to have been a young mountain lion.

At 12:40 o'clock, in less than one hour and forty minutes after squad No. 1 had left the base of the mountain, they reached the summit with squad No. 2 very close on the trail. Several good views of The Pass were taken after which R. M. Brisco succeeded in taking a number of pictures of the other members of the party without annoying him. Truly a very remarkable feat. After partaking of lunch and examining the surface of that abused mountain, the party made its descent in no slow manner. Squad No. 2 led the way and reached the base of the mountain by 3:10 p.m. after breaking all previous records in going to and returning from the highest peak of the Turtle Mountain.

WANT CANADIAN WHEAT FOR EXPORT

United States Buy Superior Production, but Our Superior Quality Attracts the Yanks

Such promises as James J. Hill has made to Canadian wheat producers are almost at the limit. The United States is not only a large market for Canadian wheat, but it is also a market for Canadian wheat. The United States is not only a large market for Canadian wheat, but it is also a market for Canadian wheat.

A Good Retort. Dr. Rutherford, ex-act commission for Canada, who used to be in politics, got back lately at a member of Parliament a short time ago. The doctor was under examination in the agricultural committee, and in speaking of Canadian cattle he produced an old photograph which he stated he had obtained in the province of Quebec. He said that he had found it in the barn of a farmer, and he was smilingly related by a little Canadian manipulation he had managed to carry it away with him.

H. H. Miller, the member for South York, thought he had a chance to take a fall out of the doctor, so he interrupted with the comment, "I hope you left the barn, doctor." "You see, I've been out of politics for some years," said Dr. Rutherford.

Coroner's Inquest

Coroner Pinkney held an inquest at the police barracks, Bellevue, July 6th, on the bodies of the two men killed in the mine on the day previous. The jury were Ed. W. Christie, (foreman), Robt. Connel, Jas. Ford, F. J. Chappell, Jno. J. Walters, Steve Ross and James Cardie; they rendered the following verdict: "That Tom Hanson and Joe D. Paquin, came to their deaths on July 5th, in Bellevue mine, resulting from suffocation caused by a fall of debris and that in the opinion of the jury no blame can be attached to any party concerned as we consider it was accidental."

It is the opinion of this jury that the company be requested that speed of travelling from entrance to 27 chute be diminished when men are riding, and that riding from 27 chute be discontinued except in necessary cases. J. T. Saveling, Prec. Inspector, was present during the hearing.

CONSTERNATION AROUSED

Over Report Given out by the Director of the Geological Survey of Canada

INVESTIGATION IS DEMANDED

By The Canadian Coal Consolidated
Whose Interests May Be Viciously Affected

The report given out by Prof. W. R. Brock, director of the Geological Survey of Canada, to the effect "that the town of Frank is in grave danger of a landslide, with heavy loss of life," has caused much distress and considerable worry to a few credulous beings, but those who are not so timidly inclined and who have given the matter a few minutes of sane thought, do not fear any unpleasant result.

On Tuesday last we interviewed Mr. A. A. Miller, the general manager of the Canadian Coal Consolidated, limited, in reference to Prof. Brock's report on the Turtle mountain and Mr. Miller said, "I am not at all alarmed."

"In order to protect the lives of the people here and their capital and the French capital invested, I am having made today an application for a board of investigation to Professor Brock and desire that the matter be thoroughly gone into."

"I accompanied several others in a climb up the Turtle mountain, and from my own observations as well as from the observations of others, I found the situation absolutely identical with that of several years ago."

"Now, Professor Brock, I understand, did not make a personal visit this summer but had an inspection made by Mr. Boyd, his assistant, and, I presume, that Mr. Boyd's report to Prof. Brock is the outcome of the article in question."

The following is a copy of the letter from Prof. Brock to Mr. Brock on Tuesday evening last:

"In respect to your recent report, under date, Ottawa, June 30th, in reference to Turtle mountain, I beg to ask for a board of investigation, that the matter can be thoroughly investigated, you to appoint one party, I to appoint another and the two to agree upon the third."

"The situation demands immediate action as a large number of lives may be in danger and I would like the amount of over two million dollars. Answer at once if acceptable to you."

"Further, I beg to say that, in reference to your report, you not being able to come out to Frank to make a personal visit this summer, and I would have been glad to talk the situation over so that we could arrive at an understanding."

"Your report under date, Ottawa, June 30th, has caused no small commotion and serious damage to capital invested in this place. You are probably aware that my company has spent in the neighborhood of $100,000 on the new sanatorium, and with an article like that reported under above date in respect to Frank being in danger of a great landslide is certainly very serious to a

The Eastern Slope

The boundary of the Rocky Mountain Forest Reserve has been located from the international boundary northward to a point due west of Lacombe. This was accomplished last summer (1910) by two parties sent out by the Dominion Forest Service. One of these, under Mr. G. H. Edgecombe, B. Sc., B. Sc. F., started at Calgary and worked northward from the same starting point. The full report of these gentlemen has just been published.

During the coming summer (1911) it is expected that the rest of the eastern boundary of the reserve will be located to its northern limit (about forty or fifty miles north of the latitude of Edmonton).

The primary aim in preserving the forests of this area is to provide a supply of timber easily accessible to the dwellers on the prairie. But there are other things, scarcely, if at all, less important, to be attended to. To users of water for irrigation and the generation of power throughout the year; and the effect of forests along streams, and especially at their headwaters, in thus regulating streamflow is well-known. Moreover, in order to keep up the level of the water in the soil and through the regions the level of the water must be maintained, and the flow not allowed to decrease to a mere dribble in the summertime. In the maintaining of this volume of water in the rivers the forests have an important effect.

The Twelfth at Lethbridge

About fifty Orangemen with their wives and sweethearts left Blairmore on Tuesday evening for Lethbridge to spend the glorious 12th of July in that city. The members of Wellington lodge, No. 2224, met in their hall about 7 p.m. on Tuesday, formed in procession at 8:30 and paraded to the C. P. R. depot where they boarded the train about 9 p.m. On Wednesday the battle of the Boyne was celebrated in Lethbridge by several hundred Orangemen and a splendid time was spent by all. The party returned home on Thursday morning well satisfied with their trip to Lethbridge.

"A. A. MILLER

General Manager

"Canadian Coal Consolidated."

In an interview which we had with Mr. J. F. Miller we were told that there was not the slightest chance of the Turtle mountain coming down. Mr. Miller came to Frank in 1901 and was there during the big slide of 1903. Ten days after that slide, Mr. Miller climbed the Turtle mountain and took very close observations of the mountain, he has made annual and sometimes semi-annual trips to the peak of that mountain ever since 1903 and he says that the conditions of things around the summit of the Turtle mountain are exactly the same today as they were shortly after that fatal slide. These words coming from such an authority as Mr. Miller should be worth taking into consideration and should largely help to remove any doubt which may yet linger in the minds of some timid and easily led creatures.

SOUTH FORK A GREAT MAGNET

Developments Disclose Great and Abundant Wealth, which needs only to be Tapped by

A MEANS OF TRANSPORTATION

To become one of the Greatest Coal Producing Sections in the North West.

The importance of the South Fork country is becoming more and more realized, and today we find that several railway companies have engineers going through that country for the purpose of finding the most feasible course through which to build a railroad.

The Southern Central Pacific Railway company have several surveyors working on a proposed route from near Lundbreck through the immense coal fields of the South Fork and then on to the International boundary line near Coats.

Some Canadian Pacific Railway engineers have just returned from a trip through the coal fields of the South Fork, and have reported that the coal is of a high grade and very valuable.

It is an interview this week with John Angus MacDonald, who owns considerable interest in the South Fork, we are informed that nine big and valuable coal properties will be extensively operated if any means of transportation were available, and a railroad from near Lundbreck through the North Kootenay Pass to a distance of about twenty miles, would reach those valuable coal properties.

Mr. MacDonald says that the coal in that section of the country is of high grade bituminous and may be very easily mined. The South Fork country has not only an abundance of good quality steam and coke coal, but it has large deposits of fire clay. The country throughout is heavily timbered and has lots of good pulp wood so that there is a strong probability of a large pulp mill being erected there as soon as the iron horse is heard snorting in that direction. The Chicago-Alberta Oil Co. have a diamond drill at work boring for oil and indications are encouraging. The Head Syndicate has a large number of men engaged doing general development work.

There is a rumor afloat to the effect that a railroad may be built from near Pincher city or Cowley through the North Kootenay Pass to Elkton. If a proposed route, it will be shorter than the Crows Nest branch of the C. P. R., by about twenty-one miles.

Never leave home on a journey without a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. It is almost certain to be needed and cannot be obtained when on board the cars or steamships. For sale by all dealers.
